DESCRIPTION

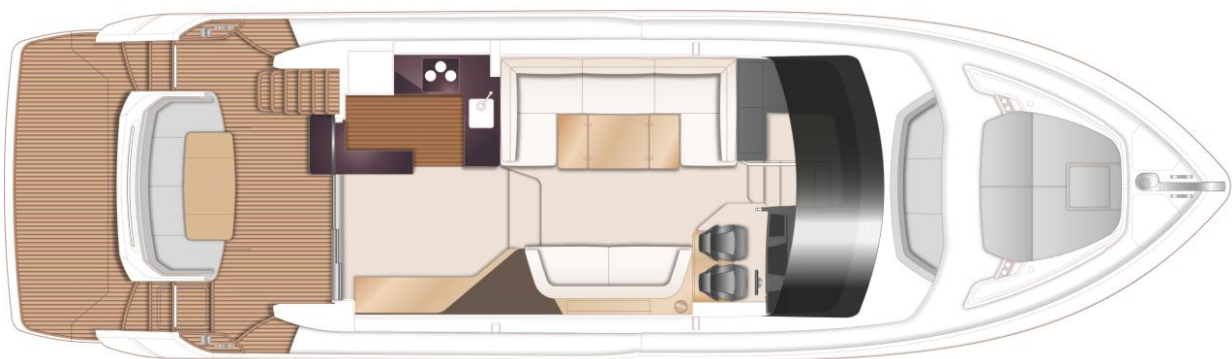

One of Princess Yachts' most popular models has been completely reimaged by the shipyard's designers and naval architect Bernard Olesinski, who has been collaborating with the yard for many decades. The effort to give the Princess F55 more contemporary features is embodied in panoramic hull windows and extensive salon glazing. The yacht also received a new interior: the cockpit dining area, galley and saloon flow seamlessly into one another on the main deck, with the saloon also serving as a dining space in inclement weather. The near-complete absence of boundaries between different functional zones amplifies the sense of space. On the flybridge you will find two large U-shaped settees and a second helm station. The lower deck accommodates three spacious cabins, two bathrooms and a captain's cabin.
